About RIMAK

RIMAK International Journal of Humanities and Social Sciences is an international scientific journal published by Rimar Academy in Istanbul, Turkey. RIMAK Journal publishes research, studies and revisions written in English, Arabic, and Turkish which are judged by a committee of arbitrators and experts to be handed over to the editorial board to determine its suitability for publication

The board of referees and editors is a collective body of international and Turkish expert scholars who consider the liability of research projects to be published according to the parameters and regulations of RIMAK. Being open access and online available, it is able to offer excellent visibility and a fast processing time from submission to publication. RIMAK aims to provide an inter-disciplinary forum to showcase state-of-the-art research challenges on human and social sciences.

Vision

Rimak Journal is looking forward to reaching the site of local and global leadership in the field of social studies to build parallel, happy, fair-based, equal and respectful human communities. It also looks forward to establishing a bridge of scientific, human and modern communication among researchers from all over the world firstly, and among societies secondly, to strengthen human, scientific, research-based, dialogue, respect and other ways away from dissonance, exclusion, and nervousness of all kinds.

Mission

The Journal seeks to connect human societies with each other on the basis of values, and the basic humanitarian principles that are aimed at upholding man and preserving his dignity. It seeks to develop scientific research in this field, and to provide opportunities for researchers around the world to contribute to solving human problems, whatever the need to reach High-class human communities away from war, destruction, tyranny, enslavement, poverty, hunger, ignorance, spiritual, ethnic, and moral....

Why Rimak

Humanities and social sciences are of a wide range of political, religious, spiritual, literary, philosophical, and artistic, and all sciences that sought to address the issues of society. And it is the group of people that make up this society, so the study of social sciences is very important. It tackles the human life, his issues for understanding the life, and others, for developing it, and living with them in the style of a happy human life in its religious, moral, linguistic, literary and historical aspects... It is important, because it helps man to understand himself firstly, and understand his society secondly. Then, he could understand his religion, language, manners, his values, customs, traditions, history, and society, added to his understanding of the languages and traditions of others. If a man who is the core of society and life relies on previous giving's, he will live a balanced happy life, and seek to build civilization, serve humanity instead of corrupting and destroying it. Consequently, the study of the social sciences and their research are important, because the social sciences are based on the true civilization of humanity, which respects the human being whom God has honored by giving him the mind as a guide, and made him above all other creatures.
